

Derivation of Areas affected by Heatwaves on Highways in Preparation for climate Change Impact Assessment

Ju-Goang Lee

Korea Expressway Corporation Research Institute, Korea

Introduction

- There is a need for a regional outlook that can cause damage to highway facilities due to climate change
- Using statistics on the number of heatwave days for 47 years, the annual average number of heatwave days and heatwave damage risk areas for all highway routes were derived

Conclusions

